Times Square & Broadway Restaurants (not mapped – easy to find)

- Restaurant Row (46th St, 8th/9th Aves) - home to 30 restaurants on one block, some a bit touristy, but all geared for the Broadway theatre crowd, serving prix-fixe specials and well-aware you have an 8pm show to get to. Recommended: Sushi of Gari 46, Becco & Barbetta (authentic Italian, 100+ years old).
- Saki Bar Hagi 46 (358 W 46th St) - Japanese eatery & sake bar offering yakitori, noodles, sushi and much more. Open very late. I love this place!
- Becco (355 W 46th, 8th Ave) - Italian, prix-fixe menus, all you can eat pasta and owned by Lidia Bastianich, a local favorite chef.
- Carmine's (200 W 44th @ 7th Ave) - family-style Italian and their second restaurant (original on the Upper West Side). Widely popular with the theater crowd, tourists and a great family-friendly stop in Times Square.
- Junior's - They have everything (burger, deli, breakfast, dessert), but are likely the most famous NY Cheesecake in the world. 2 locations in Times Square - 45th & 49th.
- Sardi's (234 W 44th, 7th & 8th) - an iconic Broadway institution for years, great for pre- and post- theater meals, a local Broadway star hangout. The menu is kind of random. Maybe upscale continental? Open on Thanksgiving.
- Joe Allen - similar to Sardi's in that it is a popular Broadway hangout (stars, producers), but a casual tavern. Orso is their Italian sister restaurant.
- Meske (Meskerem) (468 W 47th, 10th Ave) - Ethiopian, inexpensive & interesting. If you've never eaten using spongy bread to pick up your food (no utensils), it's fun and a must-try. Most dishes are spicy and many are vegetarian friendly.
- Joe's Pizza (1435 Broadway @ 40th) - consistently ranked as a top NYC slice. The original is in the West Village and locals will tell you this one isn't as good, but if you're here, hungry and don't have a lot of time, then Joe's a great bet.
- Ellen's Stardust & Gayle's Broadway Rose - what do aspiring Broadway stars do in between Tony awards? They serve you retro food at Ellen's and Gayle's Broadway Rose and perform mini shows while they do. Both temporarily closed in 2021. Rumors of re-opening issues for Ellen's.
- Tagine (221 W 38th St) - fine Moroccan, authentic and tasty chicken, lamb, couscous and more. Served at a European pace, not for the rushed pre-theater crowd.
